

Standex | Smart.

Powerfully transforming.

Standex manufactures planar transformers for demanding applications like military and aerospace projects. In addition to manufacturing custom products to exacting standards with precise electrical characteristics like capacitance, output and aspect ratio - we prove these planar transformers in an industry leading environmental and electrical test facility. Mounting and termination options are available to suit virtually any application requirements. When failure is not an option, designers of critical electronic components rely on Standex and their decades of experience.

That's Standex | Smart.
